Fire cause still unknown

The cause of the fire that destroyed four stores in the Village of Haliburton last Sunday is still unknown. Damage caused by the blaze is too great, says Dysart fire chief Mike Stinson, for his department to say where or how it started.

"Too much of the building was burned," explains Stinson, "for us to pinpoint the cause. We suspect it was an electrical fire and that it began on the ground floor - but we can never prove it."

The cause on the fire department report, he says, "Will have to be unknown."

Damage estimates have now been lowered to the $1.6 million from the earlier $2 million.

New construction on the site of the fire, says Stinson, is not far off. "The debris from the fire will be gone in about a week and a half. After that, people will be able to build."

All the gutted businesses were insured, he said.

Meanwhile the impact of the blaze continues to be felt throughout the community.

Friday afternoon, municipal engineers declared that the building owned by David Bishop and occupied by Halco Audio Visual, was unsafe. The determination was made after the building was inspected by the engineers.

The business was forced to close at 5 p.m. on Friday and was not allowed to re-open to the public. Staff members spent the weekend relocating stock from the structure to other locations in the community. The main retail service of the business is now located in the basement of the Village Barn on Haliburton's Main Street.

The building, the former Bank of Montreal location was on the edge of the blaze. The building appeared to suffer little damage, however, apparently the intense heat from the fire weakened the west wall and

Council endorses sale of shoreline

Despite strong public opposition, Anson, Hindon and Minden Council has decided to sell a piece of Lake Kashagawigamog original road allowance that has been used as a public beach, some say, for the past 73 years.

In a recorded vote of three to one (Reeve Sinc Nesbitt was absent) a by law was passed at the regular meeting last Tuesday (August 26) clearing the way for the sale of the land, known locally as Pine Point, to the family of John P. Hill Deputy Reeve Bern Berry, who chaired the meeting, was the only council member to vote against the by law.

Before the vote was taken however, members of the public - between 30 and 40 crowded into the council chambers to hear the decision on the sale - were given a chance to express an opinion.

"We can cut out five hours of crap," said Raymond Selbie, the lawyer for a group of concerned citizens, "if we just ask: are the Hills willing to compromise; will the townspeople be able to continue to swim at Pine Point as they've been doing for the past 73 years."

"We're not greedy," said Claud Schrader. "Give us - the public - a small amount of land (at Pine Point) and let the Hills have the rest, for free."

Linda Schrader, another concerned citizen, said she is angry with present council for going back on a promise an earlier council made to keep Pine Point as a public beach.

The discussion became heated as Mr. Harrison, an owner of property close to the Hills stood up to berate those who objected to the sale: "Mr. Hill gave the people the right to use the beach when they wanted to many years ago. And this is what happens."

At one point Councillor Verne Graham tried to pacify objectors by explaining that the public can still swim on either side of Pine Point. The municipality, Mr. Graham said, still retains the shore allowance for 250 feet on one side of the point and 140 feet on the other.

"I want you all to send me a letter," he said, "telling me why 390 feet of shore allowance isn't sufficient to swim on."

But when the lawyer for the concerned citizens asked Mr. Graham to show the land he was referring to on a map, Mr. Graham refused.

"You're looking at a law suit if you take (the Pine Point Beach) away from the public," Mr. Selbie told council.

After Council had voted to allow the sale of the land, Mr. Selbie demanded a poll be taken of council members and of the public who attended the meeting on the sale of Pine Point. It is legal, he said, for a private citizen to call for such a poll.

However, Mr. Selbie was unable to offer any proof of the fact.

Council then passed a resolution to adjourn the meeting until Mr. Selbie left the chambers.

Lake levels dominate meeting

The fluctuation of water levels on lakes in the Highlands continues to be a major concern for lakeshore property owners. That interest was expressed at the annual meeting of the Kushog Lake Property Owners Association held Saturday at the Stanhope Firefighters Hall.

The interest in the water levels was spurred by the presence of Mike Jamieson, the acting director in the county of the Trent-Severn Waterway System, the federal body which controls the 38 dams throughout the Highlands. However, even before he had begun speak, the members were asking their executive to lobby for greater consideration from the powers that control the levels on their lake.

A report from the lake association's environment committee noted that the members had studied the most recent report prepared by the Haliburton Highlands Water Level Committee. It described the report as being somewhat "futuristic", suggesting that major policy changes will be needed at the two senior levels of government before property owners can expect relief from the changing water levels. However, the committee reported that the following recommendations had been adopted in hope that their needs be taken into consideration:

1. We requested that when conditions arise that require a more rapid than normal drawdown of the lake during the summer season, that every effort be made to keep lake levels as stable as possible during this time of peak use.

2. We requested that changes in water levels be conducted in a controlled manner so that there are not major changes in water levels, both upward and downward, during a short period of time.

3. We fully endorse and encourage that studies be undertaken to determine the effect of fluctuating water levels on wildlife including fish and waterfowl.

4. We would hope that all lakes in the reservoir system be filled to capacity in the spring, to minimize the negative impact of a dry summer. We further insist that all reservoir lakes be maintained at similar levels at any point in time, resulting in an equitable situation for all affected cottagers.

5. That flood control studies be initiated on Kushog Lake, as well as other lakes, to determine the effect of abnormally high spring water levels, should that situation arise, and to target which locations would be adversely affected.

August was a pretty fair month and almost a carbon copy of last August, especially with regards to average temperature. There was more than double the amount of rain last August. The only abnormal condition was that we had frost four mornings August 25, 28, 29 and 30. That indicates we will have only one frost free month in 1986. First frost last year was September 11.

audience of close to 100. Jamieson said the organization he represents must respond to a number of requirements, including those of the cottage owners, in determining lake levels. This, coupled with the fact that the amount of water in the system is entirely dependent on the whims of nature, means that it is difficult if not impossible, to satisfy all users of the resource from the reservoir lakes to the last lock in the canal system.

One point the members in attendance did stress, was the sudden and often unpredictable decline in the level of Kushog Lake which occurs each September. They noted that this action often leaves boats stranded and moveable docks mired in mud. Jamieson noted that his agency was reacting to the needs of the Ministry of Natural Resources in providing the correct depth of water for the lake trout spawn. He said the agency often has to react quickly since there is no way to control the actions of the fish.

The Trent-Severn representative said they do attempt to reduce the water level at a slow rate, but a sudden drop in temperature can trigger the fish spawn. Ideally the agency attempts to reach the optimum level by the first of October.

Despite the exchange of information which took place at the meeting last Saturday, it would appear that the needs of the shoreline property owners and those who control the water levels will continue not to coincide.

New executive

In other business, the association elected a new executive for the coming year. Endorsing the slate prepared by the nominating committee and a number of nominations from the floor, the following will head the Kushog Lake Association in the coming year: those who stood for re-election - Norma Goodger, Rod Saunders, Ross Poole and Sandy MacKay; new to the executive this year are:

Bill Giddins, Lynne Johnstone, Bev Chewka, Beryl Rick and Duncan Poole; executive members who will continue in office for the coming year include Jim Onions, Ted Rueter, Lee Gauthier, Gary Moore and Brian Bayes.

Members of the association who assisted the property owners on the southern end of the lake hit by the June tornado were thanked by Bud Murray. "Your assistance was greatly appreciated by all of us in 'Tornado Alley'," he told the meeting.

In her report to the meeting, president Norma Goodger paid tribute to the organization's many volunteers. She singled out the editor of the group's newsletter, Lee Gauthier, for her efforts in keeping the members informed.

She also thanked the directors for their assistance and encouragement in seeing the young organization going. "It was a very exciting year for me, as a founding member of the Kushog Lake Association... our membership is continually expanding and we are now one of the largest lake associations in the area, and I think one of the best organized."

The departure of any medical practitioner from a community is always a sad occasion. The nature of the doctor/patient relationship naturally creates close bonds that are difficult to sever. Dr. Jeff Lodenquai's announcement last month that he will be leaving Minden shortly, engendered just that response.

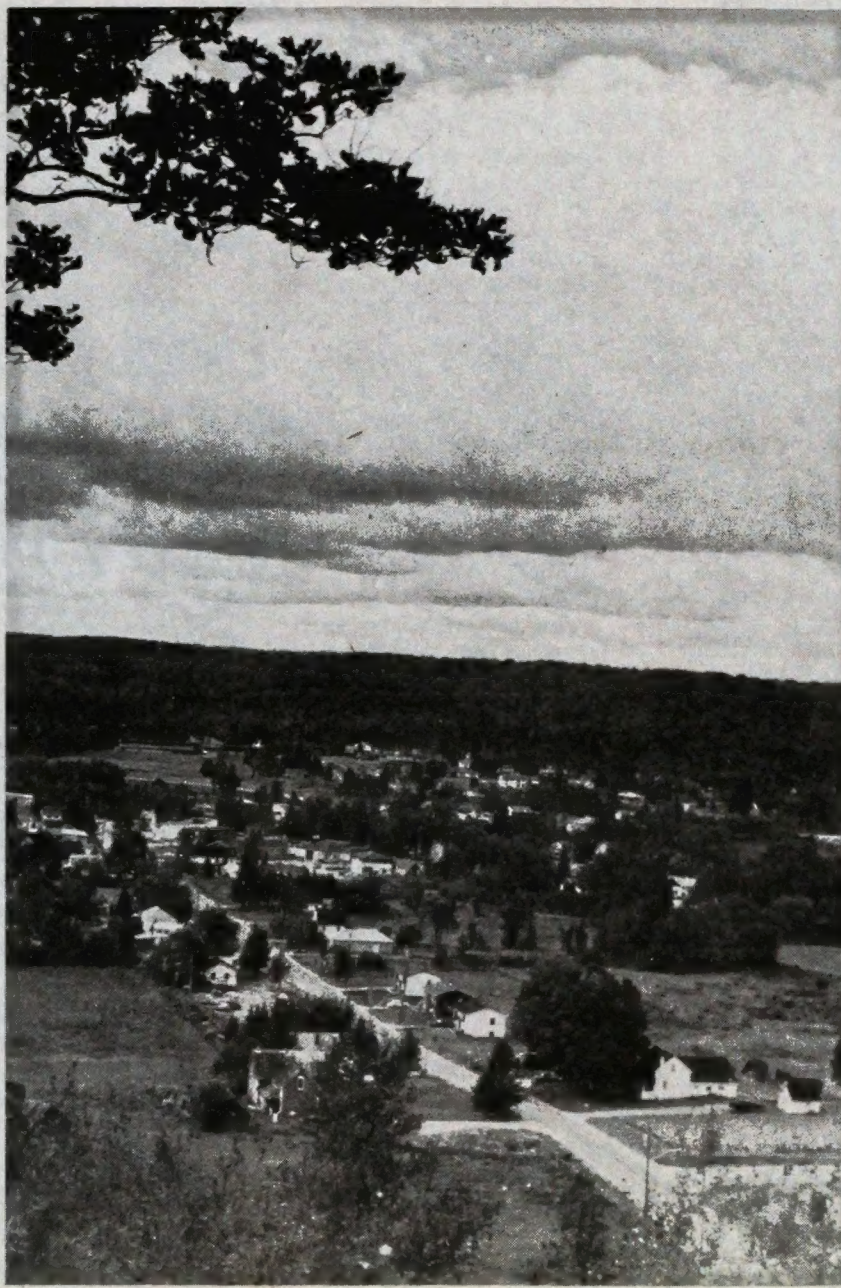

But the loss to this community will be more than just that of a caring, hard-working physician. Beyond the endless demands of his medical practice, Dr. Jeff and his wife, Marion, were deeply involved in this community. They shared its dreams, hopes and traumas, providing support and encouragement, often in ways that the public was unaware of.

The community will be losing more than a medical doctor when the Lodenquais leave next month, it will be losing two valued friends. We wish them well.

Why not the Highlands?

The provincial government is to be lauded for its renewed interest in determining just what it is that makes lakes in central Ontario tick, and what could be harmful to these important sources of recreation. The studies announced last week in Dorset by Environment Minister Jim Bradley, should provide those concerned with lake quality with the necessary parameters for making intelligent decisions on future shoreline development. In many ways, the new studies, pick up where the lake capacity studies started (but never ended) over seven years ago. Those studies evolved into the current investigation into acid rain which has dominated area concerns of late.

One disturbing aspect of the studies announced by Bradley, is the lack of a Haliburton County candidate lake among the Muskoka and Kawartha lakes to be investigated. While there may be compelling, scientific reasons for the selections made, we feel an effort should have been made to include at least one lake from the Highlands in the current initiative.

Upon visiting our parent's cottage in Minden, my husband and I had the pleasure of attending a fitness class at the Fitness Studio located in town.

We would like to take this opportunity to compliment the fitness instructors (Sharon and Patti) on their enthusiasm, competence and the friendly atmosphere of their facility. We were really pleased to be able to meet our fitness needs while staying in the area.

We hope the community and cottagers will support their facility as everyone can benefit by participating and supporting the Fitness Studio.

Last Tuesday, council voted to see more of the ever decreasing publicly owned land on Lake Kashagawigamog in Ingoldsby.

The capacity crowd of protesters at the meeting were assured that there was plenty of public lakefront left. Unfortunately, the area is filled with privately owned docks on public land. The portion of actual beach left is approximately wide enough for two people to stand side by side.

The council feels that this is good enough for us, and we really have no cause for complaint. It will be very interesting to see what happens when the next person and then the next comes for his personal hunk of public lakeshore. What is left after that will probably be good enough too!

In the July 30, 1986 edition of The Times, there was an article on the Ontario Trail Riders Association surveying Anson Township trails. In the article, it was noted that the Nesbitt Trail was not shown on any existing maps.

The Ontario Geological Survey has just completed a four year geological mapping program at a scale of one inch to 1/4 mile in the Minden area, including Anson, Digby, Longford, Lutterworth, Minden and Snowdon Townships. The map for the Anson area will be published in 1987, and will show the Nesbitt trail, located through the use of air photographs.

While a geological program, I covered most of the area on foot, and can provide topographic information, including trail locations for most of these areas. Interested parties can contact me at the Ontario Geological Survey, Ministry of Northern Development and Mines, 77 Grenville Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1W4 (416) 965-4817.

The article also commented on making a trail out of the Victoria Railway line between Kinmount and Haliburton. All major bridges on this trail are intact. Parts of this trail are incredibly beautiful, particularly where the trail follows the west side of the Burnt River south of Gelert. I was surprised that the railway line was removed, as it had great tourist potential.

The very mention of "beaver dam" conjures images. To some, intriguing mammals steeped in history come to mind. To others, drowned forests leap into view.

The beaver's penchant for building dams and lodges is well known; their 'little worlds' now dot every river, stream, lake and agricultural drain south of the tundra. Less well known are the "why?" and an appreciation of their importance.

Beaver are aquatic mammals which do not hibernate, but require a constant supply of food year-round. Throughout the summer and fall, beaver gather bud-and-bark bearing branches which yield their food. These must be hauled either directly to the lodge or (especially now) into submerged heaps which will remain accessible beneath the ice all winter. The dam's impoundment vastly increases the water's edge, accessing trees and providing a causeway in which the cut vegetation can be easily hauled. (Think of a 15 kg child trying to drag a poplar tree across land.) Equally important, the pond provides the easily-reached 'cold storage' food-cache which the beaver can reach all winter - provided the pond is deep enough not to freeze to the bottom.

A beaver dam often drowns trees. But it does far more than that. It biologically enriches the entire forest. And in the dam's immediate area, the enrichment is almost beyond belief.

As a dam is built, the rising impoundment floods nutrient-rich soil, which is promptly colonized by myriad invertebrates. Dragon and damselflies, caddis and diving beetles, midge and countless other invertebrates spring into action and become, overnight, the basis for an elaborate food web. Mallards, teal and gadwall ducks stream in. Bass, perch and over a dozen minnows burgeon. Painted, musk, snapping and map turtles follow suit. So do frogs - bullfrogs, greens and leopards to name a few. Provided with ponds in which to breed, upland species like wood and tree frogs, and salamanders, radiate outward. Toads flourish. Water, ribbon and garter snakes abound.

Mink, raccoon and weasel flourish on the abundant prey. Deer, moose and rabbits set up watering paths, to be followed by fox and other predators. Flycatchers, swallows and redwings are a few among dozens of bird species that arrive to consume the insects. Bittern, green and great blue herons arrive to

They'll miss Minden but Lodenquai's look forward to 'quiet' city life

There's a true story about Minden's Dr. Lodenquai that tells a lot about both the man and the village. It goes like this.

Ten years ago, when he first arrived in Minden from Jamaica, Lodenquai was working for another doctor. He did his job well, so well in fact, that very soon all the patients were asking to be treated by him. Subsequently Dr. Lodenquai was fired. The other doctor, who by all accounts was pretty bad at his job anyway, became jealous and thus the dismissal.

The people of Minden were shocked when they heard the news. After years of dubious medical care, they thought they finally had a man they could trust. And now it appeared they were about to lose him.

So a petition was started and, in a few short days, a list of names was delivered to the other doctor, a list of over a thousand names of people who said they wanted Lodenquai to stay. Faced with such a strong show of public feeling, the other doctor realized his options were few. "The last I heard," says Lodenquai, "he was somewhere in Arizona."

Since then, Lodenquai has done all he could to justify the village's faith in him. Like a true country doctor, he has made himself available whenever his skills were needed, day or night. Quietly working to improve the services at the Minden Hospital - there have been many nights, he says, when he hasn't gone to bed - he has ministered to the hurts and illnesses of the people who came to his door. And that has come to mean most everyone in Minden.

He sums up his memories of the state of the medical services in the village as he found them in one word: "Turmoil". Of course he was disenchanted with what he found, but it was a positive disenchantment, says Lodenquai. "I thought to myself: Okay, I can do something about this - I owe it to the community."

Most people would agree that he has more than succeeded. Besides giving the community dependable, basic health care, he has branched out into other alternative and useful areas of medicine. Should the need for such services arise, Dr. Lodenquai is licenced to hypnotize patients and to perform acupuncture, the ancient Chinese practice using needles to cure disease. Though both these skills have only recently been accepted by Western medicine, Lodenquai attaches considerable value to them.

"It's only a small part of my practice but the success rate for work I do with acupuncture and hypnosis the same as other kinds of medicine."

He uses hypnotism to treat emotional disturbances, like anxiety, tension, and various fears, and occasionally for obesity and nail biting. While acupuncture is used extensively in China - Lodenquai cites a brain tumour operation in which it was used - he only calls it into service for treating minor aches and pains.

People are afraid, he says. "It's a last resort for most patients. They come to me only after they've tried pills."

But it's not only through his medical practice that Lodenquai is known in Minden. A shooting enthusiast, he has competed in both the Pan American and Commonwealth Games, and in his living room a rack of medals attests to his skill. Soon after coming here he founded the Haliburton County Marksmen Club.

Though the club still continues, it does so these days more often without the company of the good doctor. Recently Lodenquai discovered golf, and chances are now that when he's not at the hospital or at home, he'll be at the golf course.

The reason for the shift of interest, he explains, is that "golf is a much more social sport. You're out on the course, enjoying the day and someone else's company. Whereas shooting is a much more introverted sport: it's just you, the gun, and the target."

Leaving Minden

But in mid-October Jeff and Marion Lodenquai will be leaving Minden. Their two sons, Greg and Chris, will both be away at university, and, says the doctor, he needs to take things more easily. As a country doctor he's on call for half the days of each month, and that time is not his own. The marathon hours get harder as the years go by, and it would be best for Minden, says Lodenquai, if a younger doctor took over.

He's sold his practice now and the plan is to live more quietly with his wife, Marion, in Toronto. There, the hours will be shorter and he'll be able to improve his skills by taking more courses. Also, he'll be able to greatly increase his use of hypnotism and acupuncture, something he would not have been able to do in Minden.

But he says he'll be sad to leave after working so long and so hard for the village. Asked to give his strongest memory of Minden, Lodenquai describes the short, unpleasant incident with a happy ending that happened 10 years ago when he was a newcomer and had just been fired from his first job. "When I found the community had started a petition, I realized that as a foreigner I was totally welcomed and everyone was behind me. I knew then that this was home."

Doctor Jeff and Marion Lodenquai chose Minden as a community in which to raise their family. Sons, Chris and Greg have graduated HHSS and are now attending universities in London and Toronto. Jeff and Marion recently announced that they would be moving to Toronto in October. Dr. Lodenquai has sold his Minden practice to Dr. Steve Dawson.

Safety recommendations adopted

- by Bill Scott, MP -

The Canadian Coast Guard has agreed to 26 of 39 safety recommendations included in the report of an inquiry into the sinking of the fishing vessel Stanley Clipper of Lake Erie during a storm two years ago.

The Coast Guard agreed to the inquiry's most important recommendation that a way must be found to change fishermen's attitudes to safety and that fishing vessel owners should make it clear to their captains to run regular fire and safety drills, to demand that crews wear proper safety equipment, and not take risks with their vessels and crews. The Coast Guard has been asked to increase its efforts to acquaint fishermen and fishing vessel owners and operators with existing sources of safety education and self-help.

The Coast Guard also agreed, with modifications, to a recommendation for mandatory courses for fishing vessel captains, to take effect through the amended Canada Shipping Act, and that the safety handbook for inshore fishermen be widely circulated. Thirty thousand copies of the handbook have been distributed and a book on ship stability will be distributed this fall.

Guard has been asked to

The report of the Rosenberg inquiry blamed the master of the Stanley Clipper for failing to stop fishing after a storm warning was broadcast and was also critical of the owners, the ship safety branch of the Coast Guard, Customs and Excise and the Ontario Provincial Police - all of whom were found to have contributed to some extent to the loss of the vessel and crew.

The Coast Guard, which held extensive meetings with representatives of the fishing industry in Ottawa and Port Dover, Ontario, the Stanley Clipper's home port, said the consensus of the meetings was to consider the recommendations as applying to all inspected commercial fishing craft - about 3,500 in total - across Canada.

The Coast Guard disagreed with 10 recommendations, such as a requirement for barometers and logbooks on fishing vessels, the propriety of the Coast Guard advertising the rental of inflatable liferafts, the requirement to increase the height of coamings (ledges) on all main deck doors, the removal of bilge pumps and a mandatory requirement to fit four bulkheads in all types of small fishing craft. The remaining three recommendations were either considered by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, implemented by the Federal Fisheries Insurance Plan, or found not to be a Transport Canada matter.

The following is a list of items and places the Railway Transport Committee of the Canadian Transport Commission will hold its public hearing on CN and CP Rail applications for authority to operate cabooseless trains.

from the chamber

by Shawn Hagerman

The big fire in Haliburton was certainly a shock to that town's business community. To have seen your livelihood go up in smoke, is something that haunted anyone who watched it last Sunday. The business owners, Vince Connaughan, Lon Duncombe, Betty Hodgson and Lorne Campbell, whom I have come to know over the last period of time, provide necessary services to the business community on the main street.

Our Chamber Manager Shirley Rapson, was at the Eaton Centre for a week. She was surprised at the amount of people who came to the booth to inquire as to how Haliburton was making out after the fire. It's nice to know so many people are interested and concerned.

Shirley Rapson also reported that it was a very busy and productive week. Over ten resort accommodations participated with some helping at the booth.

This has proven to be a very productive and cost efficient way to promote our county. This base is provided free courtesy of the Centre, and it allows us to reach a very important market for our tourism industry.

She also reported that by moving it up from the first week of September to the last week in August the flow through the booth was improved dramatically. We hope we can get the same booth again next year.

Those interested in participating in the upcoming Ski Show in October, must have their material into the Chamber Office no later than September 15th. We emphasise for all those who are sincere about promoting their winter business not to ignore this important show.

The Chamber helps provide vehicles and opportunities for businesses to promote themselves. Full participation insures that the costs of our going are covered.

Man charged after stolen credit card used in area

Sean Patrick Eager was arrested and charged with possession of stolen property on August 27 when he was found using a credit card reported stolen in Bracebridge. Eager is to appear in Provincial Court on October 22.

The investigating officer was Constable Bill Clendenning.

Failing to yield

A charge of failing to yield right of way was laid against a Dorset woman on August 30 when the vehicle she was operating came in collision with a vehicle operated by Paul McFarlane of Thornhill. Ruth Stewart was turning into a driveway on Highway 35 south of Highway 117 and failed to yield to the northbound vehicle. Approximately $5500 in damages resulted from the collision.

Constable Brian Ladurantaye was the investigating officer.

ATC accident

A three wheel ATC operated by Carl Gibson of Palgrave collided with a car driven by Jose Alves of Toronto at approximately 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, August 31. The accident took place on a township road at Davis Lake and Gibson received minor injuries. Gibson has been charged with careless driving and failing to have insurance on his vehicle. The collision resulted in over $800 in damages.

The incident was investigated by Constable Mike Maybee.

The Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report that over the holiday weekend there were 7 personal injury accidents,

Exposed to light and water, hummocks of wild rose, marsh willow and strange shrubs get their start. On them flourish iris, warblers and a panalogy of "critters".

Beaver continually high-grade the pond edge, clipping off the palatable alder and aspen. They'll drop birch, hardwoods and even conifers. But in time, the perimeter grows up in less palatable species. Eventually, the beaver move on, to start a whole new chain of events elsewhere. But this isn't the end. Soon, the beaver dam fails, drains and becomes a whole new surface on which lush growth of grass and sedge flourish. These "moose pastures" soon sprout their own growths of special vegetation, each pocket repleat with its own warblers, predators and prey.

In time, the forest will reclaim the site - simplifying and monotonizing it - awaiting for what else - another beaver dam.

Next time you pass a beaver dam, have a close look - at the community the beaver supports.

Woman captures title at Kinmount Fair

With close to 33,000 in attendance, the Kinmount Fall Fair, 1986 edition, could be a record-setting event for "The Fair With The Forward Look." Fair board secretary Guy Scott says final figures on attendance are just not available yet, but this year's event attracted one of the largest crowds in the fair's history.

The crowds surged through the grounds, taking in the three days packed with activities. While superlatives could be used to describe just about every aspect of the fair, Scott noted that the cattle show drew an outstanding number of entries, some 237. Many of the entries had just competed at the CNE. One of the largest quadruped on the grounds was a 2100 pound Simmental bull.... now there's the beef!

Debbie Blackmore of Burnt River was named Queen of the Fair in a competition with seven other young ladies.

The ladies dominated in another area as well, this one a traditional male domain. The singles horseshoe pitching championship was won by Sheila McGrath of Whitby. Much to the chagrin of the participants and spectators, she outpointed both Roy and Harold McLaughlin who have shared the singles title over the past number of years. The pair took the fair's doubles title. Ms McGrath, by the way, is the Canadian Champion horseshoe pitcher.

Zany costume parade at Denna Lake regatta

submitted

The second Denna Lake regatta was held Sunday, August 31 after being postponed from the week before - due to the rain.

We had 17 boats participate in the parade, and they were truly 'a work of art'.

The first prize was won by the "Frog People" who just happened to be the Kings, the Eatons and the McIsaac's.

Second prize went to the "Red Cross", manned by Brian Gemmell as Nurse Who, Lynn Gemmell as Dr. Doctor, and Derek and Tara Sullivan as the poor accident victims.

Third and last prize was for the "Titanic" manned by the Elstons. Honourable mention to all the kiddies who participated in the boats.

Everyone finally arrived at Ken and Carol Cox's beach, where many games for young and old were played with prizes given to the winners.

A sneak preview of a video made of the boat parade was given at the cottage of John and Muriel Yates. This video was taped by Mr. Harold Whyte of Orangeville and hopefully will be shown on C.K.V.R.

We then enjoyed a great

BBQ and corn roast, and a beautifully decorated cake, in the form of the lake, and all cottages designated by "smarties" which was made by Pat Bradburn.

Many thanks to the social convener Daisy Downs and all her helpers, especially the cooks, Ray Downs, Steve Badmor, Ken Cox, Brian Gemmell and Priscilla Downs.

The winners of the golf tourney held on Saturday, the 30th were announced! This was put together through the efforts of Russ King. It was a great weekend. Hope to see you all at it again next year.

other support members, making the building structurally unsafe.

The community opened its heart and purses to the three families burned out by the August 24 fire. More than $3,300 had been collected in donation jars placed in businesses throughout the community. The jars were removed Tuesday. Anyone wishing to add to the effort can make their contribution at the Haliburton Branch of the Bank of Montreal. Cheques should be made payable to the Fire Fund.

Reverend John Smith of the 4 C's Christian Centre in Haliburton reported that two of the burned out families have found accommodation as of Tuesday. He said that most of the major appliance and furniture needs of the families have been met through donations at the Haliburton Centre and through the Stanhope Township collection effort. He said he was very pleased with the response of the public to the needs of the fire victims.

Painter inspired by Highlands flowers

by John Greenwood

Dzintra Schlotter has a unique relationship with her husband, Edward. From the photographs he takes of the landscape and flowers around the family cottage on Boshkung Lake, she paints her pictures, soft, detailed watercolours that suggest a kind of sympathy with the subject matter. And when they're finished, Edward offers his criticisms, pointing out where he thinks the work is good and where it might be improved.

"I don't always like to hear the things he says," she admits, "but he tells me anyway."

Her art, Dzintra explains, is a product of the relationship. Before getting married six years ago, she had completed a grand total of two paintings. Now her watercolours and drawings cover the walls of the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden. (The exhibition will stay until the end of September.)

The inspiration to paint seriously, she says, came when a card she'd illustrated as a thank-you note for staying at her then boyfriend's cottage, was praised by his family. "That was what got me going. Afterwards, I really began to work at it."

Since then she's been returning regularly to Haliburton County, drawn by the countryside and flowers that fill her paintings. But there are other demands on her time. A full-time physiotherapist at a hospital in Mississauga, Dzintra has to juggle work and home life in Oakville in order to find time for her art.

"Fortunately though, a lot of the actual painting I'm able to do in the city. I begin with a drawing, usually done on the site, and from this and the photographs Edward takes, I'm able to do most of the work."

The average painting, she says, takes between 30 and 40 hours to complete. And in a way it's fortunate she's been able to work out this method because floral arrangements, one of her favourite subjects, rarely last more than a few hours anyway. Fortunate also because the painting is a calming influence on her hectic life.

"I feel a sense of ease and harmony when I'm doing my art. It's a wonderful way of relaxing."

This is especially true since she's had her son Nicholas, now just ten weeks old. "I'll be on maternity leave until November and I don't know how I'd be able to keep myself at home if I didn't have something to concentrate on and keep my mind occupied."

The extra time Dzintra's had at home has given her the opportunity to work on her ink drawing. It's a new technique for her and difficult because of the precision required.

"I first started working in ink two years ago, and I like it because it gives me a chance to concentrate on detail." In fact, she says, the ink drawings are a lot harder than painting because each one takes her between 50 and 60 hours to finish. She begins with a pencil sketch and when she knows how it's going to look, she takes out her pens.

"I worked so hard on the first ones, I couldn't bear to part with them."

And though Dzintra, whose favourite artist is Robert Bateman, spends a long time on all her art, the results are drawing crowds. In the last two years, she's taken part in juried shows and exhibitions, both in Haliburton and Toronto, and they've all attracted interest. At the Agnes Jamieson Gallery on Sunday afternoon, both rooms of the gallery were packed with people who had come to look and buy the pictures.

After painting for only six years the success, admits Dzintra, is encouraging. But what about plans for the future? Yes, she says, she has lots of them. "I'm thinking about getting into acrylics and I'm also considering the idea of doing greeting cards."

But for the time being though, quitting her job to concentrate on the art is not one of those plans. "I like the thought, but I'm afraid I haven't quite reached that stage yet. And besides, I don't think my bank manager would permit it."

Artist Dzintra Schlotter receives a congratulatory hug from her husband Edward, on the opening of her exhibition at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden on Sunday. Dzintra is an accomplished artist in watercolour and pen and ink. The exhibition will continue until the end of the month.

Trent-Severn Waterway report

On August 25th the stored water in the Haliburton Lakes averaged 68.1% of the normal full level. This was about 5% more than the 10-year average for this date, and represented a 4.4% drop from the previous Monday.

Medium flows have been run all week from the tributary lakes. Rain late on Tuesday, August 26, resulted in surplus water on the Kawarthas, and an increase in flow of the Otonabee River draining from them to Rice Lake. Without further rain over the long Labour Day weekend this flow will have to be reduced early the first week of September.

Earlier drawdown of the lakes with fall spawning fish will begin also early in September. This procedure affects the levels of Kushog, Big Bob and Little Bob Lakes, which have been analysed by Ministry of Natural Resources. Lake trout especially are aided by this procedure.

Did you know?

by Jane Selbie

Johnny Z. is starting school. He is a bright, alert child, he walked early and never really crawled. He is thrilled about school but he still hasn't managed to drop some of his baby talk. He often gets overly excited and doesn't listen well - Mom is wondering how he is going to do in school?

Johnny is a lovable child and his mother has played and taught him many things. He will enter the school system and his learning will continue. His learning becomes a shared responsibility now with his school. His parents should follow his progress and discuss any concerns they may have. No individual's progress follows the same timetable but if a child seems to be lagging in areas; these should be discussed with his teacher.

As a parent, if you suspect something is not right, you can learn more. The Haliburton County Information Centre offers materials on Learning Disabilities; signs to look for, publication lists that are available. The Ontario Association for Children with Learning Disabilities has a chapter in Haliburton. They meet every other month to discuss aspects of detecting and assisting children who may have varying degrees of a learning handicap. For more information you may wish to contact Mrs. Dawn Brohman, the president of the group (457-2143) or call the Information Centre at 457-2733, we are in the Drag River Building in Haliburton.

You are your child's ambassador. Don't ignore your suspicions, follow through by getting information that may help your child. If it is nothing, you can relax and enjoy your children for the individuals that they are.

Business opens new location in Minden

After a mere ten years in business, Northshore Lawn and Garden has grown from a part-time sideline for Bob Patton to one of the largest outdoor equipment sales and service businesses in the county. That growth marked another milestone this past weekend when Bob and his wife, Eleanor, officially opened the new location of the business at the corner of Highway 35 and South Water Street.

Bob was a licenced mechanic when he and his wife moved to the Highlands in 1974. At that time, they had purchased the Beech View Cottage Resort on Beech Lake in Stanhope Township. Bob was working for the Ministry of Natural Resources at the time at the Frost Centre.

During his 1976 vacation, he started to repair a number of lawn mowers and garden tractors. The few brought in for repairs quickly turned into an avalanche, leading to Bob finally calling the provincial ministry to inform them he would not be returning from his holiday...he had found a new line of work.

His reputation and the quality of repair work placed his services in even greater demand. With the repair work came requests for new models in various product lines. Bob became the Bolens Tractor representative in the Highlands and slowly expanded to include such well-known names as Stihl, Murray, Canadiana and John Deere.

The couple sold their interest in the resort last year and moved the lawn, garden equipment and chain saw business to Minden at the beginning of July.

It's been a busy summer leading up to the official opening last Saturday. In addition to meeting all the needs of their regular customers and the new clients, the couple has been renovating the showroom, repair shop, plus building a new home on the shore of Beech Lake.

The effort has been well worth it as those passing the well-situated location can attest. The renovated building is an attractive addition to the Minden business community and will enable the Pattons, along with serviceman Art Hoskens, to meet the needs of their growing clientele.

Stihl chain saw customer service representative Jon Blair, congratulates Bob Patton on the opening of his new showroom and service centre at the intersection of Highway 35 and South Water Street. Bob, seen with his wife Eleanor, and son John, recently received two awards from the chain saw manufacturer, one for selling over a half mile of chain and the second for chain saw sales.

Play your part

Each year in Canada, about 70 young children are killed and 4000 are injured in car crashes.

The latest national survey showed that almost 80% of children under 5 are not being protected adequately in motor vehicles.

Transport Canada sets tough safety standards that manufacturers of infant carriers, child safety seats and booster seats must meet.

You can provide the best protection for your children by securing them in a properly installed seat, anchored to your vehicle by a top tether strap.

Buckle up. It's the thing to do.

Yes, indeed, you can't get rid of us by simply turning off This Week in the Highlands...no siree...we've still got some prizes to give out. This is the award for Contest Number Eight, which featured the rapids at the Minden Wild Water Preserve smothered in a gentle blanket of snow, not a kayaker in sight. Several interesting entries this time around. Hanna-Joy Forsyth, a four year old who is a regular reader of TW, sent her entry in and correctly identified the picture, her parents attesting to the unassisted effort on her part in naming the scene. Unfortunately, her entry was not the one selected at random to determine the winner but we still do appreciate her participation. Lorna, as usual, penned her rhyming quartet....

Those kayakers at Wild Water Preserve
Our greatest admiration did deserve,
While in competition at the Pan Am,
On those swift waters below Horseshoe Dam.

The winning entry from contest number eight was submitted by Milt Sears. His answer was selected from all the correct ones received for the contest. Congratulations to him and $25 in cash as his prize. We have one more prize to give away, for the answer to Contest Number Nine. Watch for the September This Month in the Highlands for news of our final victor.

Local participants enjoy Ontario Senior Games

by Bruce Armstrong

This is the hand that shook the hands of two attractive ladies - Mila and Caroline Mulroney. They were the special guests at the opening ceremonies of ACTIFEST '86, the very first Provincial finals of the Ontario Senior Games.

Among the other guests were the Hon. John Eakins, Minister of Tourism and Recreation, and 'Dom' Cardillo, popular Mayor of the host city of Kitchener.

Imagine the huge and colourfully lit Ruedesheimer Garten, sometime Rollerdom, with 1200 Seniors, guests and volunteers seated by District, and fed, eventually, buffet style. It was just prior to the parade of head-table dignitaries and the 62 District Reps marching 2 x 2, that the Prime Minister's wife circulated and introduced her daughter: May Sinclair and I were among the fortunate few to speak to them.

The games' sites were spread throughout the city and the 950 or so Seniors who were bunking at Waterloo University were bussed around for the next two days as per their schedules. Gold, Silver and Bronze Medallions were awarded on-site with some games running two days and others one.

Our 33 Haliburton County, and 1 associate Muskoka, 'Athletes' acquitted themselves well and won 2 medals and were fourth in at least 1 other, of the 6 games entered. Ellen Scribner was awarded a Bronze in Ladies Golf, May and Don Sinclair worked hard and long to claim the Shuffleboard Bronze, while Fred Knight and Maxine Cross were fourth in Darts in a field of some 60 teams.

Only 6 Districts won more than 2 medals while 5 others tied our 2.

The 12 who went home empty-handed claim "that they will be back", as Brampton has been awarded the Ontario Senior Games' Banner and will be the host city for the 2nd Provincial Finals in 1988; Brampton edged out Peterborough and Ottawa for the honour. In 1987 there will be Community and District games as in the past.

31 of the designated 33 Districts of Ontario were represented at Actifest '86 and throughout the games, our County uniforms of white shirt or blouse, Haliburton tartan crests and red caps stood out; only the Simcoe County group sought a degree of uniformity with a red slip-on apron affair. We made ourselves heard on several occasions, an example: at the Tuesday evening banquet when the Hon. Pauline McGibbon was special guest speaker, the Assistant Deputy Minister, Tourism and Recreation read a note from the Hon. John Eakins apologizing for the omission of the Haliburton half of his constituents in his previous night's address - we graciously, tho' noisily, accepted!

The over-all enthusiasm of the Seniors probably amazed the organizers with line-ups for the 6:30 to 8:00 a.m. breakfast, and the early busses running full and the later ones half empty and at the closing ceremonies where 300 were expected to stay twice that number had to be fed.

I am very proud to have been associated with such a fine group of Haliburton County Seniors. We got to know each other better and enjoyed the 3 day event as representatives of the Haliburton Highlands rather than Minden, Kin-mount, the village, West Guilford or Ingoldsby etc. Normally we tend to go our own ways as do all the Districts, but down in Kitchener it was the Ontario Senior Games - and, for Mila, we sang 'Oh Canada'.

SMOOTH MOVES.

Under the hood, a Kubota L-Series tractor is a smooth mover. Our L-3750 and L4150 models come with a 5-cylinder diesel engine that improves performance over a smaller engine. Without the fuel consumption of a bigger engine. It's just as smooth on any kind of front loader jobs. With your choice of a mechanical or hydraulic shuttle-shift, going back and forth is almost automatic. Other features that help make the work easier include a clearly designed operator platform with gearshift controls at your fingertips. Not underfoot. So take a look at these new Kubota L-Series tractors. You just might be moved to own one.

ASK YOUR PHARMACIST

Lice do not discriminate

"The school nurse sent my children home. She says they have lice. She's right, but I can't believe it. I am horrified and humiliated."

Stop feeling guilty. A lice infestation does not mean your house is dirty or you've failed as a parent.

Lice easily move from one person to another. Close bodily contact spreads lice; so does sharing such personal articles as hats or combs, even riding on a school bus or sitting on toilet seats.

Fortunately, you won't have to burn clothes or pour kerosene over the kids to disinfect them. Your pharmacist can help you considerably with the tasks at hand.

Effective treatment is easy if a few important points are remembered.

There are three types of lice - head, body, and pubic. They can be seen moving on the skin or scalp. The nits, or eggs, are clearly visible on the hair shaft as immobile, gray, oval bodies. It is important to remove each and every nit.

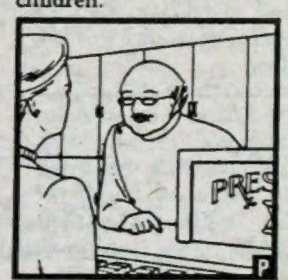

The medication used for delousing (getting rid of lice) may be bought without a prescription in cream, lotion or shampoo.

Two such products available are Kwellada® and GBH®. Your local pharmacy carries them and other preparations.

Read the directions carefully and ask your pharmacist for help if there is any part of the instructions that you do not understand.

Be sure to check with your doctor or pharmacist before delousing young children because some preparations will cause toxic side effects in young children.

All clothes and bed linen should be laundered or dry cleaned and all combs and brushes disinfected to prevent reinfestation.

If your child is sent home from school because the child has lice, chances are other children in the class are also infested. You won't be the only parent your local pharmacist has helped this week. It happens at the start of every school year.

An advisory column written by The Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, Ottawa, Ontario.

Medication used for delousing is for external use only. It may be harmful if swallowed and may cause irritation to eyes, mouth, and open wounds.
